THE ITINERARY IN DETAIL

Once on board, the guests will be offered some refreshments. The captain will hold a short welcoming speech, and will give the passengers a brief recount of the boat's history. Along the way, the crew will point out some of the sights; however the focus on the trip is not sightseeing.

After an hour of cruising, the boats are moored together in a sheltered bay. A meal is then served; popular choices include salmon or leg of lamb, all grilled on board, or a sumptuous seafood buffet. The meal can be rounded off with fresh strawberries with cream or an assortment of cakes and coffee. Dessert can be served directly after the meal or as many prefer, later, while cruising amongst the islands.

Should it rain, there is ample comfortable seating in the saloons, and the decks can be covered, making it possible to remain on deck as well. The evening light and natural surroundings of Oslo are unique and tend to fascinate all our guests from abroad. Such an evening on the fjord will long be remembered and treasured!

KEY FEATURES

- The atmosphere on board is pleasantly informal
- Enough room on the decks to sit, eat, drink, chat and dance
- It is popular to have live music to set the mood on board, for example an accordionist or jazz trio

GENERAL CONDITIONS

All of the boats have been beautifully restored, while maintaining their original charm. The course of the day's cruise is partially dependent upon the prevailing weather conditions.
